COMMENTS

Since August 2013, CorpBanca's consolidated financial statements include the results of Helm Bank and its subsidiaries, recognizing the results of Helm Bank in its September's financial statements for second consecutive month. As of this date, CorpBanca controls 66.4% of Banco CorpBanca Colombia S.A. and, through this bank, 87.4% of the outstanding shares of Helm Bank S.A.

Balance

As a result of the consolidation, as of September 2013, CorpBanca reported total assets of Ch$17,375,764 million (US$34,461 million)³ and total loans of Ch$12,950,631 million (US$25,684 million) of which the Chilean operations represented 63% and 62%, respectively. The Chilean loan portfolio was Ch$8,014,117 million (US$15,894 million), which reflects a 5.6% decrease from the previous month. This decrease is primarily caused by CorpBanca's sale of approximately Ch$321,000 million (US$635 million) of its corporate loans portfolio. In terms of results, such sale has a neutral impact on our P&L.

Results

CorpBanca registered a consolidated net income of Ch$108,163 million (US$214.5 million) as of September 2013, representing a 30.8% increase over the same period in the previous year, when the net income was Ch$82,710 million (US$164.0 million). Chile contributed 44.2% towards this growth, while Colombia contributed 55.8%.

During this period, the income of the equity holders was Ch$110,710 million (US$199.7 million) versus Ch$83,015 million (US$164.6 million) accumulated as of September de 2012, representing an increase of 21.3% in the last twelve months.

The following table presents separately the results generated in Chile and Colombia as of September 30, 2013, to show the impact of the Colombian operation in the consolidated results of CorpBanca. It is important to highlight that the books of CorpBanca Chile include some expenses associated to the Colombian operations, particularly i) interest expenses in connection with the part of the acquisition of Banco Santander Colombia (now known as Banco CorpBanca Colombia) that was not financed with equity; ii) amortization of the intangible assets generated in the Banco Santander Colombia acquisition and in the acquisition of Helm Bank; and iii) impacts in connection with the coverage of the tax effects of the total investment in Colombia.

These results, adjusted as of September 30, 2013, allow the separation of the Chilean results from any impact related with the acquisition of Banco Santander Colombia (today Banco CorpBanca Colombia) in May 2012 and of Helm Bank in August 2013:

* For periods on and after August 2013, CorpBanca Colombia's results include the results of Helm Bank and subsidiaries.

CorpBanca's net operating profit before loan losses increased by 12.8% between September 2012 and September 2013. This increase reflects an increase in net interest margin (NIM) of 37.4% and an increase in commissions of 15.4%. At the same time, although CorpBanca's operating expenses mildly increased (1.1%) during the first nine months of 2013, the increase in the operation allowed CorpBanca Chile to improve its efficiency levels (from 48.6% in 2012 to 43.6% in 2013) and to approach its long term target. Meanwhile, the 2013 net expenditures in provisions for loan losses increased in relation to 2012, mainly as a result of elevated releases and recoveries in the previous period, as well as higher costs, particularly in the months of July and August of 2013. During September, the net expenses for provisions for loan losses have been normalized in Ch$4,650 million (US$9.2 million).

The net income of CorpBanca in Colombia has been improving from month-to-month. The increase in operating expenses for this period is primarily the result of one-time expenses related to CorpBanca Colombia's the acquisition of and preparations for the anticipated merger of Helm Bank. During August 2013, Helm Bank paid approximately Ch$2,190 million (US$4.3 million) in severances and during September, CorpBanca Colombia paid legal fees relating to the acquisition of Helm of approximately Ch$1,300 million (US$2.6 million). Transaction taxes associated to a capital increase of approximately US$1,000 million performed in August of 2013 are still pending payment. Such taxes have been accrued since August ending in November in the amount of approximately Ch$1,000 million per month (US$2.2 million). Additionally, CorpBanca Colombia has initiated the amortization of the intangible assets generated for the acquisition.

In September, provisions for loan losses of CorpBanca in Colombia registered and increase of Ch$8,400 million (US$16.7 million), corresponding in equal parts to Helm and CorpBanca Colombia. In each case there has been, (i) an increase in provisions in the consumer loan portfolio; (ii) adjustments for the homogenization in the treatment of the commercial loan portfolio; and (iii) homologation of Helm to the policies of CorpBanca Chile. The amount of the homologation – Ch$4,500 million (US$8.9 millions) approximately – will be adjusted against goodwill, once the purchase price allocation regarding the purchase of Helm Bank is settled.

Funds Expenses

The average interest rates paid for CorpBanca's deposits and loans for non adjustable operations and operations adjustable in UF presents the following evolution during this year:

Summary of deposits and loans	Average Jun.13	Jan.13-	Jul.13	Aug.13	Sep.13
Non adjustable operations	0.51%		0.48%	0.49%	0.50%
Operations adjustable in UF	0.33%		0.31%	0.30%	0.30%

As presented in the table, CorpBanca's fund expenses do not present significant variations.
